

Guardian cryptic crossword

No 27,325 set by Qaos

Across

- 1 Fair to abolish Sabbath for good ... er ... god! (7)
- 5 A classic, right? Sun's back chasing topless figure (7)
- 10 President's son steals 500 old bricks ... (6)
- 11 ... to cast magic over father's new crusade (8)
- 12 Copy sample evenly (3)
- 13 "Massive" British trip hop artist being difficult ... (6)
- 14 ... in front of the microphone, a number like a rousing song (8)
- 15 Drug ring back in Dorset town (5)
- 16 Moon rocks left this forge as standing stones (9)
- 19 After spinner's six deliveries, yorker initially provides breakthrough ... (9)
- 21 ... in the '80s, Cook departs after knowing ball's caught (5)
- 24 Stage device returning characters without skill (4,4)
- 26 Archer who's on the fiddle (6)
- 27 Prince shall be undressed (3)
- 28 Cryptically, three in existence? (3,5)
- 29 Does comic admit working the cinemas? (6)
- 30 God's peach and raspberry slice (7)
- 31 Pop idol gains 1,000 pence by euro's collapse (7)

Down

- 2 Become bankrupt, when parts are traded for experience (7)
- 3 Stupid single honour for Croatian tennis player (9)
- 4 Studies dissertations (6)
- 6 Downgrading Germany's European proposal (8)
- 7 Gap sells pullovers and cardigans – even tops (5)
- 8 Play Nigel Short's hardest openings – such as this one? (7)
- 9 Scientist works here with harpoon and cage? Not he (13)
- 17 It transfers rotations to wellie he'd thrown (4,5)
- 18 Manager's racing car problem: Tesla's been stolen (8)
- 20 Acquainted with molten tin? That hurts! (2,5)
- 22 Pined for salary received in Japan? (7)
- 23 Efflorescent answer by Orlando, perhaps (6)
- 25 Betray no sailor in uprising (3,2)

Solution No. 27,324

